This is our generation at Auburn

We inquire about the world. . .

the world of school
people, and God.

We look and think, then
we discover answers for ourselves.

The answers won't please everyone, but we can accept them because they are ours.

We have friends. . .

For in the advantage of knowing others we
learn of ourselves—

through Christian association we can draw closer to God.

We are alone. . .
for only in knowing
ourselves can we understand others.

We must be alone to
fashion our dreams
and determine our goals.

We are all the same. . .
we laugh, we smile,
we glimpse the humor
in ourselves.

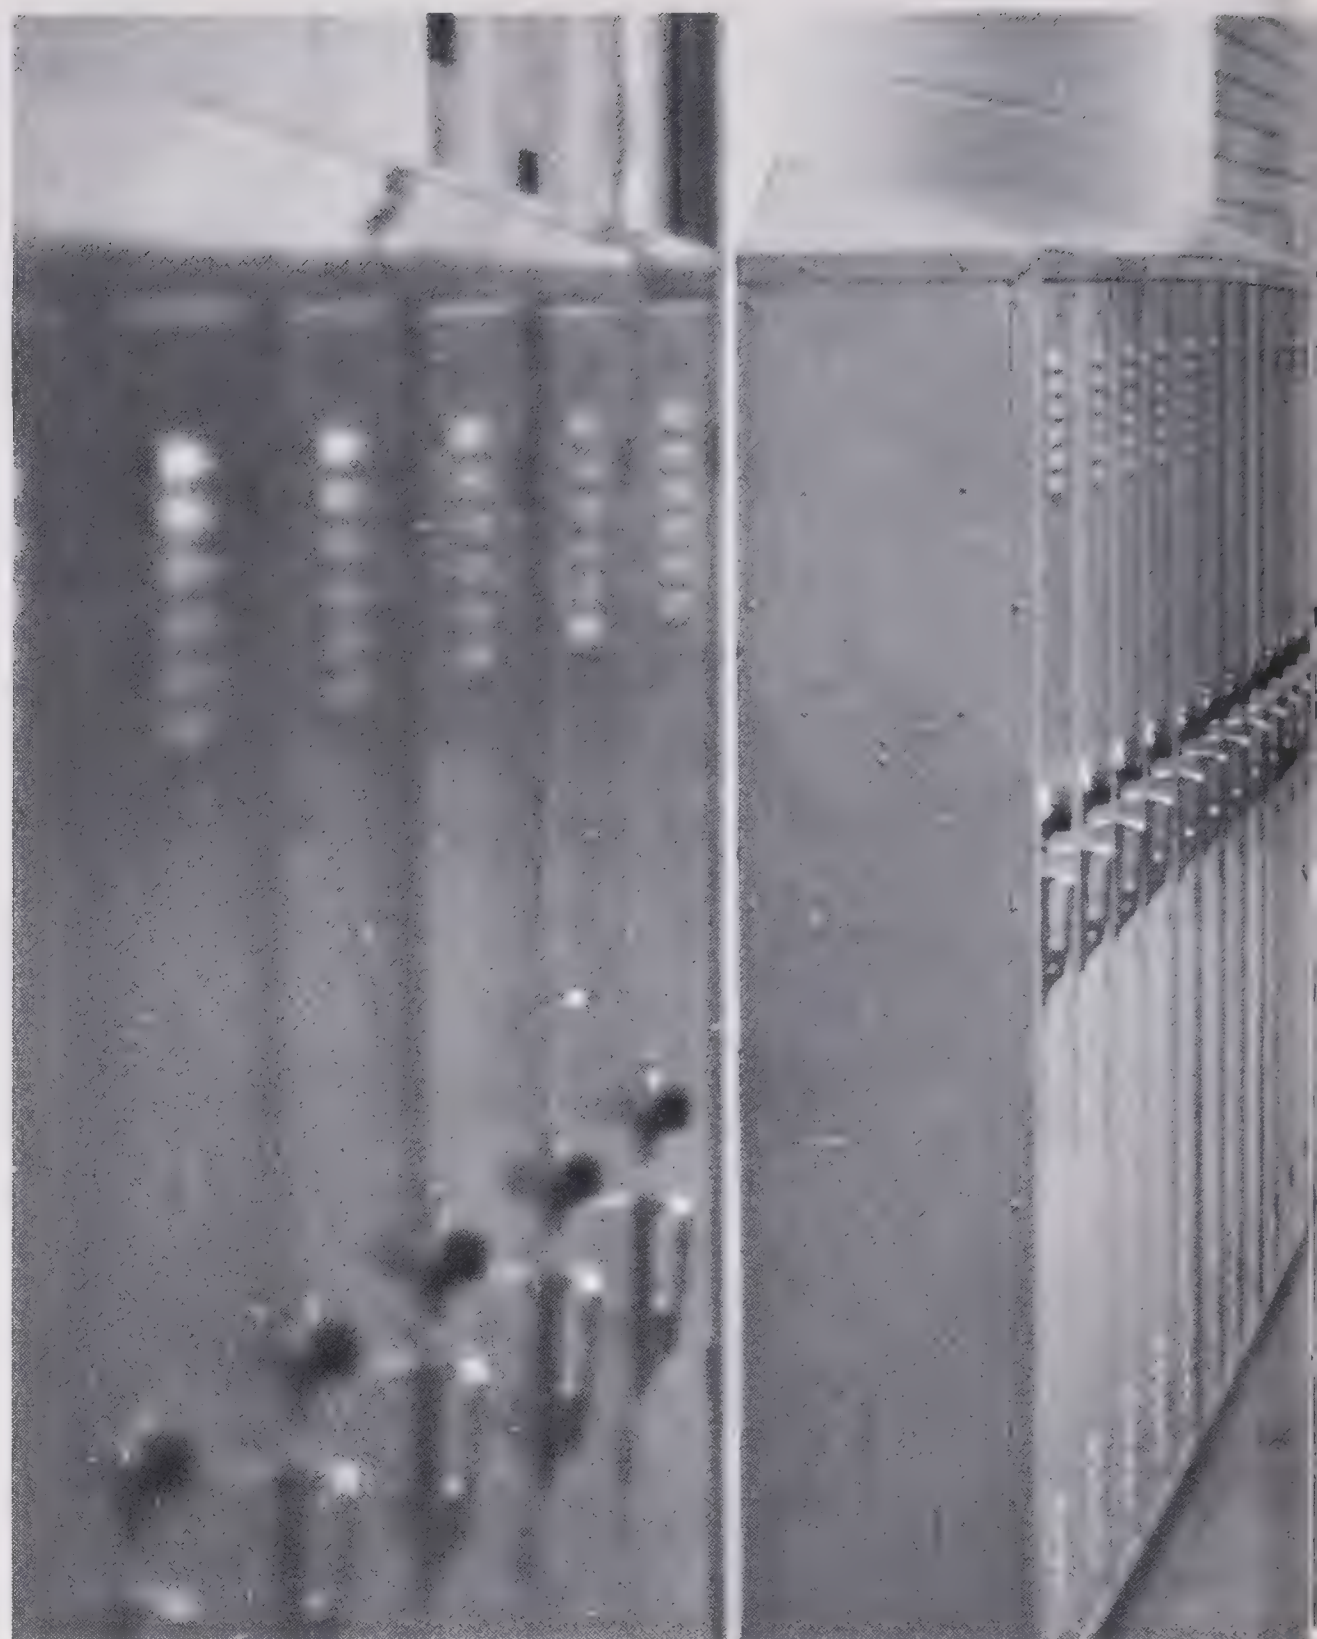

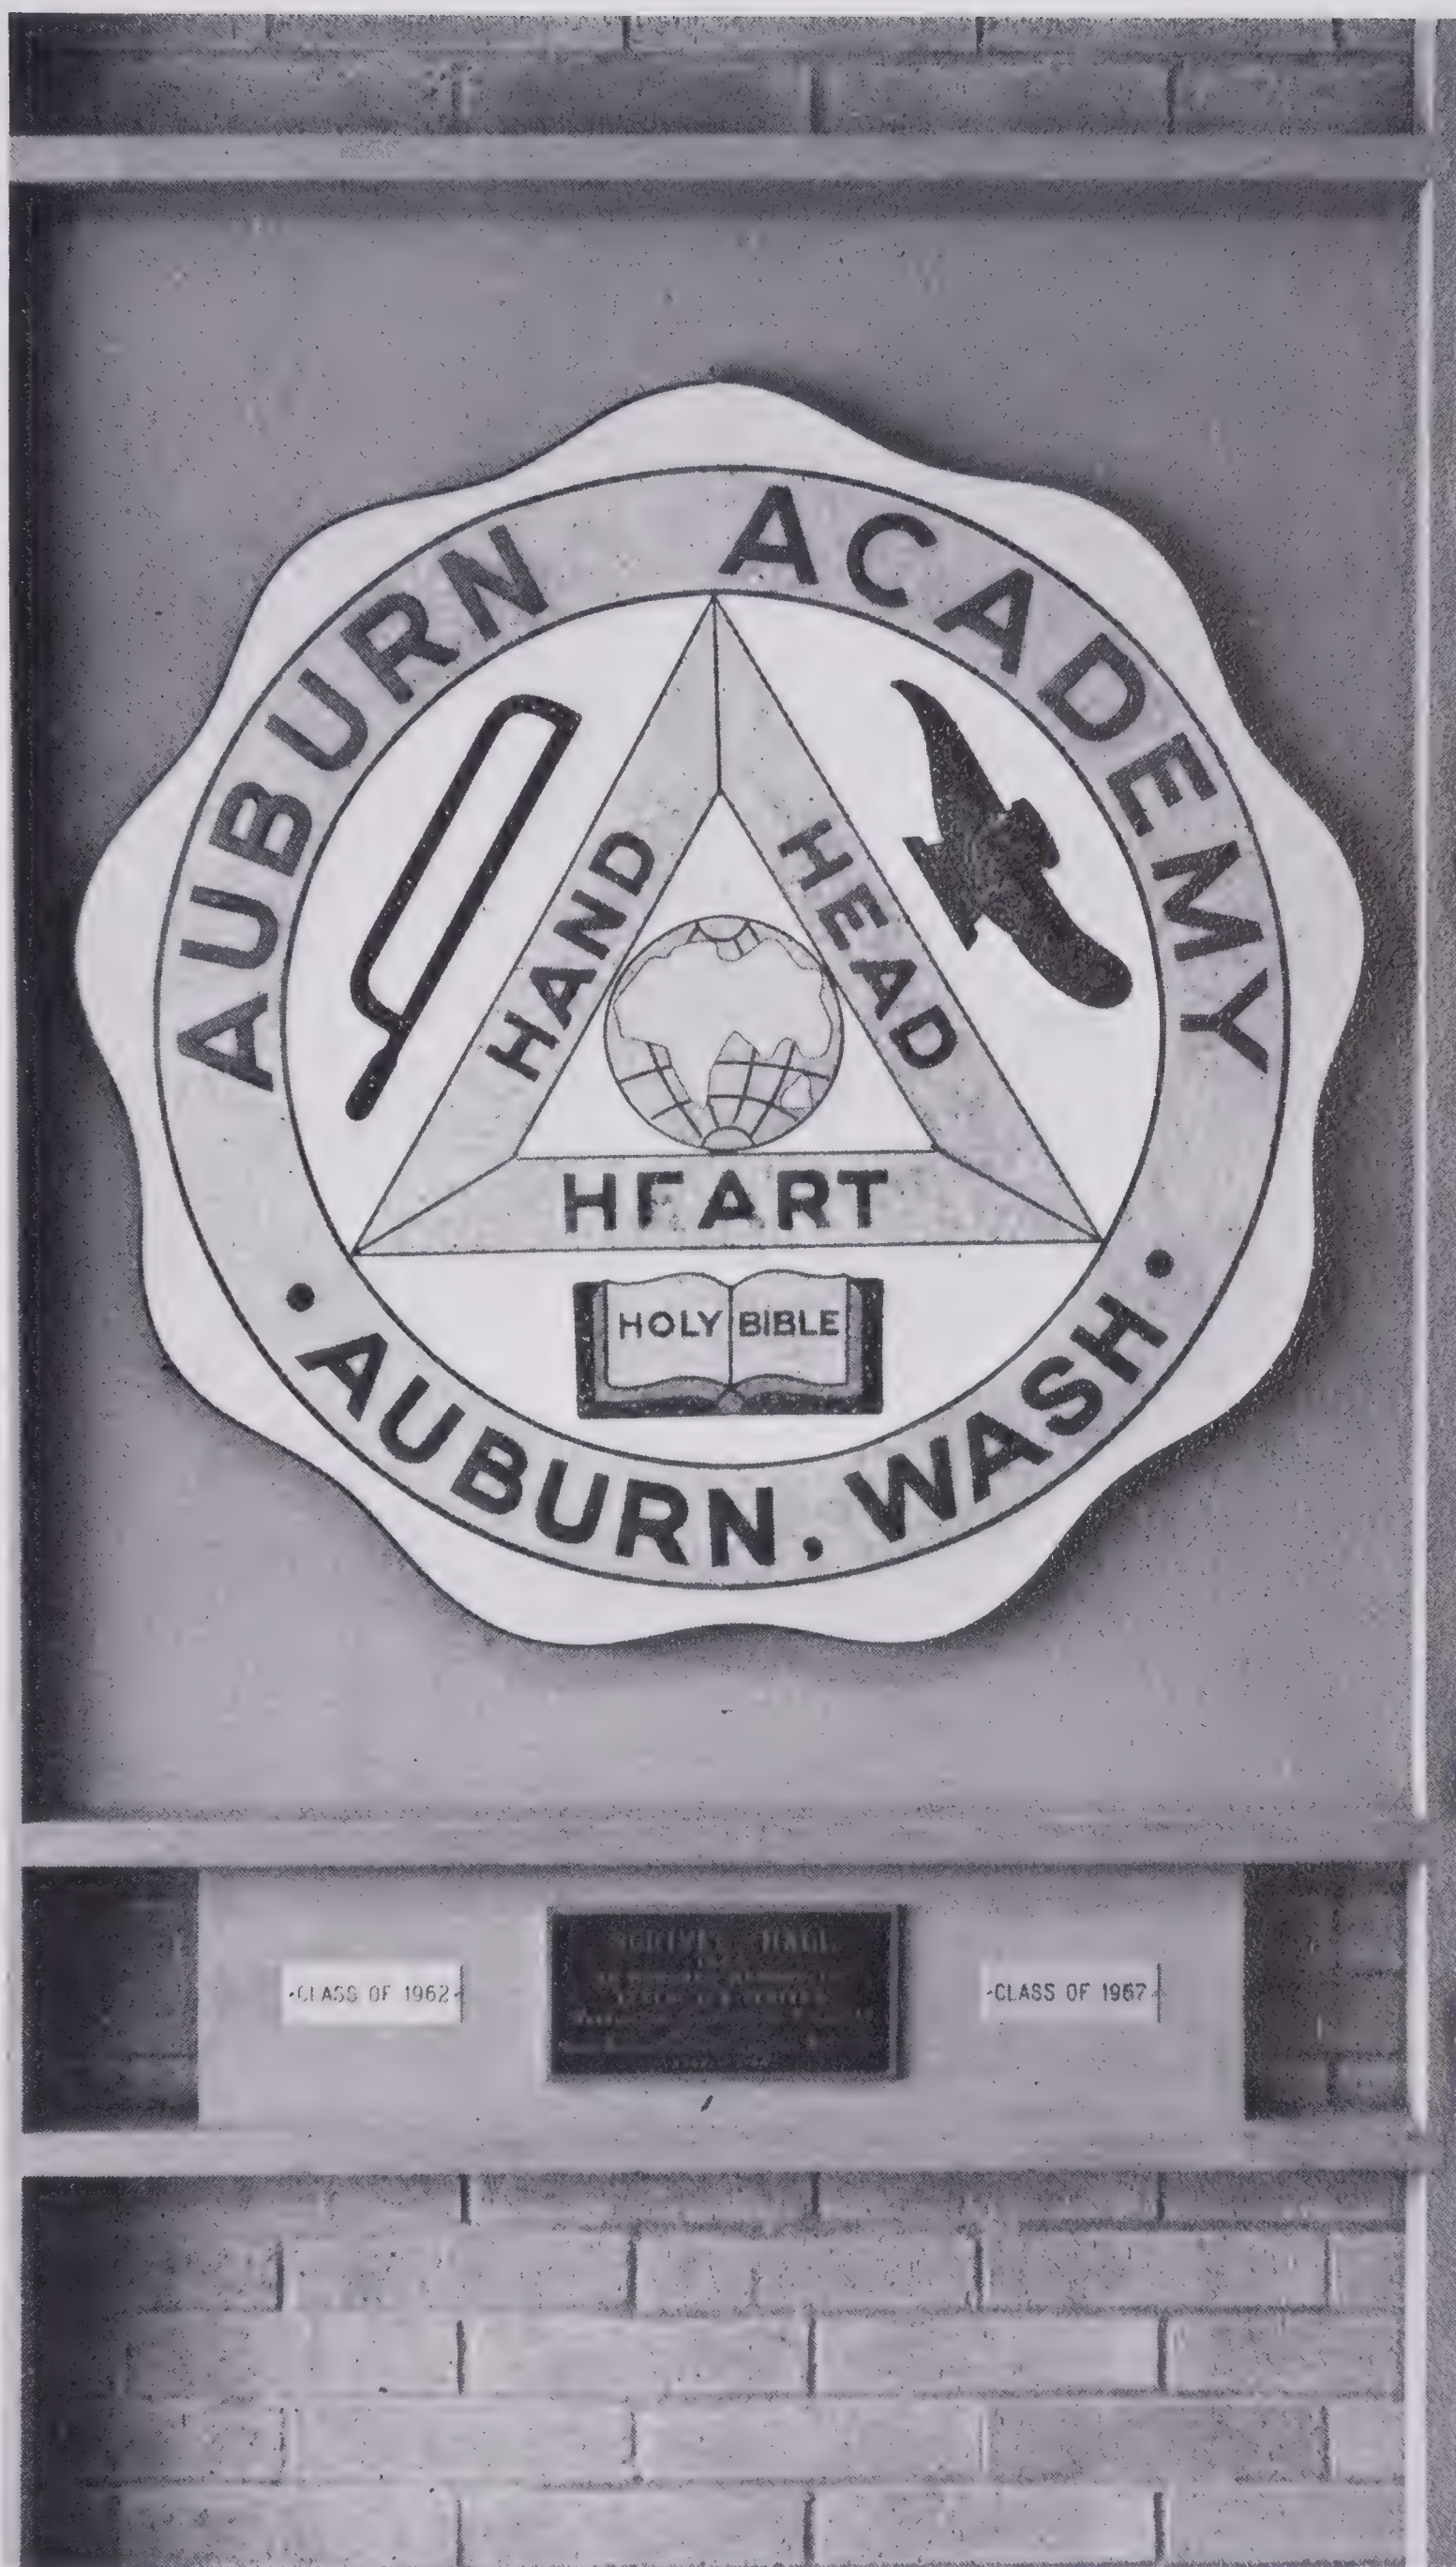

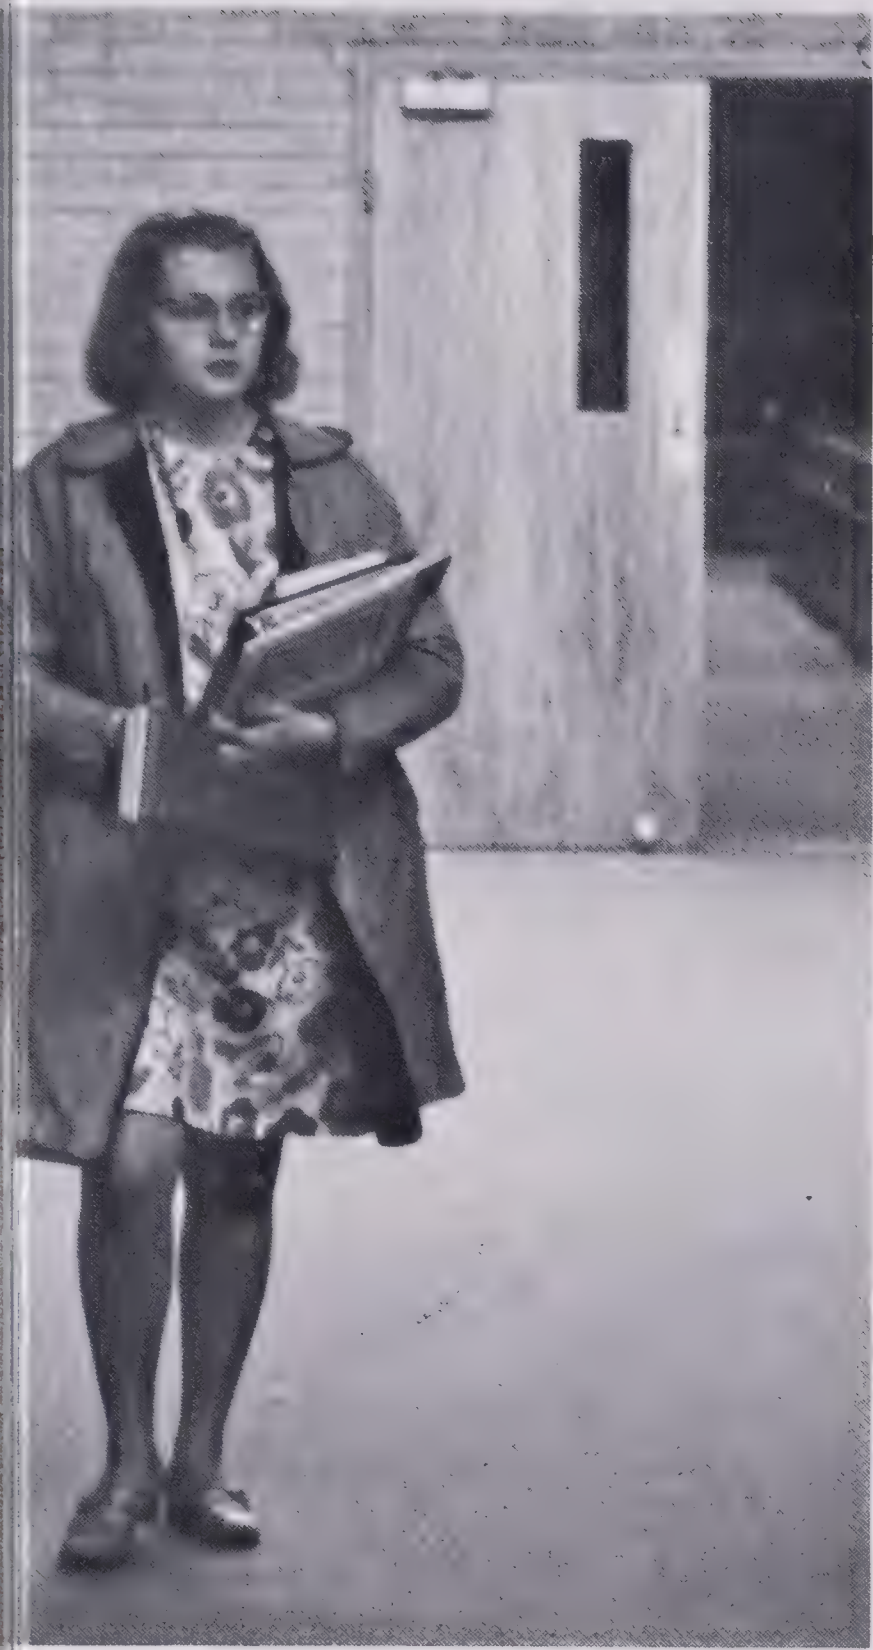

Here we stand. . .
where hundreds have been before and where hundreds more will be.

But for now we are unique,
for we are here.

For the moment, we have
became a part of that place called—
